

Transcript 1: Manic Disorder test case

The following transcript is produced by a patient exhibiting stereotypical symptoms of manic disorder interacting with the agent. The patient is in a persistent excited state displayed by the use of “!” and words such as “great”. The patient also experiences insomnia, increased irritability libido.

Welcome, you are now speaking with a mental health professional, for best results please participate fully and answer any questions in detail. Feel free to speak openly and discuss any sensitive topics as this conversation is completely confidential.

You: Hi there!
Doc: Hello, I'm Dr.Feelgood. Why don't you begin by telling me about yourself, what is your name?
You: My name is Jeff
Doc: And what do you like to do with your spare time?
You: I like to do alot of different sports, i like to think i can do anything :)
Doc: That's quite interesting, do you often have time for fun?
You: Yes all the time
Doc: Hmm that is peculiar
Doc: What about family, do you have any siblings?
You: I have an older sister
Doc: Do you have any family members that you don't get along with?
You: Nope, my family is amazing!
Doc: Lets try to dig deeper into that
Doc: Are you experiencing any emotions more often than normal?
You: I dunno, does being horny count?
Doc: I'm sorry, I'm not supposed to answer questions, only ask them.
You: oh im sorry
Doc: Is there anything in your life that makes you sad?
You: nah my life is perfect
Doc: Okay, I see
Doc: Why is it that you have come to seek help now, what has changed?
You: ive been kind of irritable lately and i cant sleep sometimes
Doc: Do you ever experience long periods of sadness or lonliness?
You: never
Doc: Do these feelings often confuse you?
You: no
Doc: Okay, I see
Doc: Please elaborate on that for me.
You: Well im just a genuinely happy person, i think its normal
Doc: Tell me how you think your life will be 5 years from now.
You: thats a really good question! wow, i think i might be like an astronaut or something cool like that
Doc: Thank you for your time, I think that I have learned enough about you for an accurate diagnosis.

I am %75.0 confident that you have manic disorder

Symptoms displayed:

Happines: 34
Excitement: 9
Anger: 0
Agression: 0
Sadness: 3
Fear: 1
Anxiety: 1
Confusion: 2
Memory Loss: 0
Cognitive Loss: 1
Delusion: 0
Hallucination: 0

Calculated possible diagnoses:

Manic Disorder: 3740
IE Disorder: 490
Depression: 360
Bipolar Disorder: 0
Anxiety Disorder: 400
Amnesia: 35
Alzheimers: 70
Schizophrenia: 20

Transcript 2: Intermittent Explosive Disorder (IED) test case

The following transcript is produced by a patient exhibiting stereotypical symptoms of IED interacting with the agent. The patient is easily agitated and experiences sudden violent mood swings often overreacting to disliked situations. The patient also has tendencies to revert to physical violence to express angry, and uses vulgar or abusive language.

Welcome, you are now speaking with a mental health professional, for best results please participate fully and answer any questions in detail. Feel free to speak openly and discuss any sensitive topics as this conversation is completely confidential.

You: Hello
Doc: Hello, I'm Dr. Feelgood. Why don't you begin by telling me about yourself, what is your name?
You: John, what do you care
Doc: Do you have a job?
You: Yah I work at a car wash
Doc: Lets try to dig deeper into that
Doc: Where do you work, do you enjoy your work?
You: its called squeaky clean, the place is shit
Doc: Would you consider yourself someone with alot of friends?
You: what the fuck do you care
Doc: How many friends can you trust and depend on?
You: i dunno like 3
Doc: Now that I know a little about you, can you tell me the reason you are here?
You: Im sorry, its just been hard I get really mad sometimes and i dont know why
Doc: Is there anything about your thoughts that concerns you?
You: If I get really angry at someone i think i might punch them
Doc: Is there anything in your life that excites you?
You: yah I do really like snowboarding
Doc: Okay, I see
Doc: Is there anything in your life that makes you happy?
You: summer
Doc: Why is it that you have come to seek help now, what has changed?
You: i tend to get really frustrated easily
Doc: Do you ever take out your anger in a physical way?
You: yah, one time i just about killed my brother
Doc: Lets try to dig deeper into that
Doc: Has this form of expression ever got you in trouble?
You: well almost, I was charged with assault once but they dropped the charges
Doc: Why do you think you feel this way?
You: i dont know!
Doc: Along with anger, do you ever experience periods of unexplained sadness or loneliness?
You: no not really
Doc: Right I think I may see where you are coming from
Doc: Please elaborate on that for me.
You: well i mean im usually in a pretty good mood its just sometimes out of no where i get so mad
Doc: Right I think I may see where you are coming from
Doc: Thank you for your time, I think that I have learned enough about you for an accurate diagnosis.

I am %72.0 confident that you have IED

Symptoms displayed:

Happines: 10
Excitement: 0
Anger: 48
Agression: 42
Sadness: 0
Fear: 0
Anxiety: 0
Confusion: 10
Memory Loss: 10
Cognitive Loss: 4
Delusion: 6
Hallucination: 0

Calculated possible diagnoses:

Manic Disorder: 240
IE Disorder: 6120
Depression: 160
Bipolar Disorder: 0
Anxiety Disorder: 40
Amnesia: 969
Alzheimers: 819
Schizophrenia: 320

Transcript 3: Depression test case

The following transcript is produced by a patient exhibiting stereotypical symptoms of Depression interacting with the agent. The patient often feels lonely and useless and sometimes contemplates suicide. The patient experiences loss of interest, physical pains, and troubles concentrating.

Welcome, you are now speaking with a mental health professional, for best results please participate fully and answer any questions in detail. Feel free to speak openly and discuss any sensitive topics as this conversation is completely confidential.

You: hi
Doc: Hello, I'm Dr.Feelgood. Why don't you begin by telling me about yourself, what is your name?
You: cindy
Doc: And what do you like to do with your spare time?
You: i dont go out much
Doc: Where do you work, do you enjoy your work?
You: i dont have a job right now
Doc: Would you consider yourself someone with alot of friends?
You: no not really
Doc: Lets try to dig deeper into that
Doc: Now that I know a little about you, can you tell me the reason you are here?
You: ive just been really down lately, like im worthless
Doc: Is there anything about your thoughts that concerns you?
You: i thought about hurting myself once
Doc: Is there anything in your life that makes you sad?
You: yah, i dont really have any friends
Doc: Lets try to dig deeper into that
Doc: Is there anything in your life that makes you happy?
You: not too often
Doc: Right I think I may see where you are coming from
Doc: Do you often feel alone?
You: yes all the time
Doc: Hmm that is peculiar
Doc: Why do you feel alone?
You: well im always tired so i never want to do anything and even if i can its not interesting to me
Doc: Hmm that is peculiar
Doc: Between sadness, anger, and happiness, which do you feel most often?
You: sadness
Doc: Please elaborate on that for me.
You: well i dont really enjoy my life, i always have a head ache, and its like no one cares about me
Doc: Right I think I may see where you are coming from
Doc: Thank you for your time, I think that I have learned enough about you for an accurate diagnosis.

I am %72.0 confident that you have depression

Symptoms displayed:

Happines: 6
Excitement: 0
Anger: 2
Agression: 7
Sadness: 15
Fear: 2
Anxiety: 0
Confusion: 0
Memory Loss: 0
Cognitive Loss: 0
Delusion: 0
Hallucination: 0

Calculated possible diagnoses:

Manic Disorder: 120
IE Disorder: 430
Depression: 2425
Bipolar Disorder: 0
Anxiety Disorder: 240
Amnesia: 0
Alzheimers: 0
Schizophrenia: 300

Transcript 4: Bipolar test case

The following transcript is produced by a patient exhibiting stereotypical symptoms of Bipolar interacting with the agent. The patient exhibits symptoms of both manic disorder and depression, with unpredictable mood swings.

Welcome, you are now speaking with a mental health professional, for best results please participate fully and answer any questions in detail. Feel free to speak openly and discuss any sensitive topics as this conversation is completely confidential.

You: well hello

Doc: Hello, I'm Dr.Feelgood. Why don't you begin by telling me about yourself, what is your name?

You: cindy

Doc: And what do you like to do with your spare time?

You: i like to go out with friends

Doc: Where do you work, do you enjoy your work?

You: yah, i have a job at tim hortons, its alright

Doc: Okay, I see

Doc: Would you consider yourself someone with alot of friends?

You: kind of

Doc: How many friends can you trust and depend on?

You: id say 5

Doc: Now that I know a little about you, can you tell me the reason you are here?

You: im just confused with my feelings, sometimes if really excited and motivated and other times im sad for no reason

Doc: Hmm that is peculiar

Doc: Is there anything in your life that frustrates you?

You: no not really

Doc: Right I think I may see where you are coming from

Doc: Why is it that you have come to seek help now, what has changed?

You: yesterday was such a perfect day and i felt like i can do anything, but today i was so lazy and helpless

Doc: Right I think I may see where you are coming from

Doc: Do you ever experience short periods of innappropriate anger?

You: never

Doc: What do you think is the cause?

You: I dont really think there is a cause

Doc: Between happiness, excitement, sadness and anger, what emotion do you experience most often?

You: probably a tie between sadness and excitement

Doc: Please elaborate on that for me.

You: some days i cant concentrate on anything or ill have really bad cramps, and other days i feel great

Doc: Tell me how you think your life will be 5 years from now.

You: its hard to tell

Doc: Thank you for your time, I think that I have learned enough about you for an accurate diagnosis.

I am %45.0 confident that you have bipolar

Symptoms displayed:

Happines: 22
Excitement: 23
Anger: 1
Agression: 0
Sadness: 18
Fear: 1
Anxiety: 1
Confusion: 16
Memory Loss: 2
Cognitive Loss: 2
Delusion: 0
Hallucination: 0

Calculated possible diagnoses:

Manic Disorder: 2850
IE Disorder: 270
Depression: 2340
Bipolar Disorder: 5190
Anxiety Disorder: 409
Amnesia: 910
Alzheimers: 780
Schizophrenia: 40

Transcript 5: Anxiety Disorder test case

The following transcript is produced by a patient exhibiting stereotypical symptoms of Anxiety Disorder interacting with the agent. The patient experiences moments of their mind going blank, or freezing as a reaction to certain situations. The patient also has a recurring nightmare, and tends to avoid any situation that relates to it.

Welcome, you are now speaking with a mental health professional, for best results please participate fully and answer any questions in detail. Feel free to speak openly and discuss any sensitive topics as this conversation is completely confidential.

You: good afternoon
Doc: Hello, I'm Dr.Feelgood. Why don't you begin by telling me about yourself, what is your name?
You: my name is jeremy
Doc: Do you have a job?
You: yah
Doc: Okay, I see
Doc: That's quite interesting, do you often have time for fun?
You: most of the time
Doc: What about family, do you have any siblings?
You: no im an only child
Doc: Okay, I see
Doc: Now that I know a little about you, can you tell me the reason you are here?
You: ive been having the same nightmare for 2 weeks now
Doc: Is there anything about your thoughts that concerns you?
You: yah, whenever i go out in public i freeze up and cant think
Doc: Right I think I may see where you are coming from
Doc: Is there anything in your life that makes you sad?
You: not that i can think of
Doc: Right I think I may see where you are coming from
Doc: Why is it that you have come to seek help now, what has changed?
You: im always on edge and i get really nervous when i think about going outside
Doc: Tell me about something that makes you sad?
You: umm well i guess the thought of never being able to go out with my friends
Doc: Why does it make you sad?
You: i dont want to be alone but in my nightmare everyone in the world crowds around me until i cant breath, so i dont want to be around people either
Doc: Do you ever experience periods of unexplained joy or confidence?
You: not really
Doc: Hmm that is peculiar
Doc: Please elaborate on that for me.
You: well i mean ive never felt that way
Doc: We are almost done here but before you go, is there anything else you need to tell me?
You: im just scared is all, i dont know what to think of it
Doc: Thank you for your time, I think that I have learned enough about you for an accurate diagnosis.

I am %63.0 confident that you have anxiety disorder

Symptoms displayed:

Happines: 10
Excitement: 0
Anger: 0
Agression: 0
Sadness: 11
Fear: 12
Anxiety: 12
Confusion: 2
Memory Loss: 4
Cognitive Loss: 1
Delusion: 0
Hallucination: 0

Calculated possible diagnoses:

Manic Disorder: 330
IE Disorder: 0
Depression: 1060
Bipolar Disorder: 0
Anxiety Disorder: 2990
Amnesia: 355
Alzheimers: 270
Schizophrenia: 20

Transcript 6: Amnesia test case

The following transcript is produced by a patient exhibiting stereotypical symptoms of Amnesia interacting with the agent. The patient has previously been in an accident and suffered a brain injury. The patient cannot recall any events leading up to the accident, is occasionally disoriented, and experiences seizures.

Welcome, you are now speaking with a mental health professional, for best results please participate fully and answer any questions in detail. Feel free to speak openly and discuss any sensitive topics as this conversation is completely confidential.

You: hello
Doc: Hello, I'm Dr.Feelgood. Why don't you begin by telling me about yourself, what is your name?
You: Karen
Doc: Do you have a job?
You: no, i think i used to but i cant remember
Doc: Right I think I may see where you are coming from
Doc: Would you consider yourself someone with alot of friends?
You: i dont really know
Doc: How many friends can you trust and depend on?
You: none i guess
Doc: Now that I know a little about you, can you tell me the reason you are here?
You: i was in a car accident yesterday and had a head injury. i dont remember anything about my life
Doc: Right I think I may see where you are coming from
Doc: Are you experiencing any emotions more often than normal?
You: no not really. ive been very disoriented lately
Doc: Right I think I may see where you are coming from
Doc: Is there anything in your life that angers you?
You: its very frustrating not knowing who i am
Doc: Hmm that is peculiar
Doc: Do you find it hard to learn new skills?
You: no not really
Doc: Lets try to dig deeper into that
Doc: Do you need help from other people to complete daily tasks?
You: im fine by myself, although i have had a few seizures
Doc: Between confused, fogetfull, and unable to think, which describes you most often?
You: forgetfull
Doc: Please elaborate on that for me.
You: i guess its not forgetfull, just that i cant remember anything
Doc: Right I think I may see where you are coming from
Doc: Thank you for your time, I think that I have learned enough about you for an accurate diagnosis.

I am %60.0 confident that you have amnesia

Symptoms displayed:

Happines: 3
Excitement: 0
Anger: 7
Agression: 2
Sadness: 6
Fear: 2
Anxiety: 2
Confusion: 0
Memory Loss: 20
Cognitive Loss: 2
Delusion: 0
Hallucination: 0

Calculated possible diagnoses:

Manic Disorder: 100
IE Disorder: 380
Depression: 480
Bipolar Disorder: 0
Anxiety Disorder: 199
Amnesia: 4410
Alzheimers: 2060
Schizophrenia: 40

Transcript 7: Alzheimer's test case

The following transcript is produced by a patient exhibiting stereotypical symptoms of Alzheimer's interacting with the agent. The patient is elderly and experiencing memory loss and cognitive loss. The patient has troubles learning, solving problems, and is often confused.

Welcome, you are now speaking with a mental health professional, for best results please participate fully and answer any questions in detail. Feel free to speak openly and discuss any sensitive topics as this conversation is completely confidential.

You: Good afternoon doc
Doc: Hello, I'm Dr. Feelgood. Why don't you begin by telling me about yourself, what is your name?
You: the names Bill
Doc: Do you have a job?
You: no im retired
Doc: Hmm that is peculiar
Doc: Would you consider yourself someone with alot of friends?
You: not really, i only have a couple
Doc: Hmm that is peculiar
Doc: Now that I know a little about you, can you tell me the reason you are here?
You: Well ive just been very forgetfull lately, and sometimes i wake up at night really confused
Doc: Is there anything about your thoughts that concerns you?
You: i used to be great at sudoku but now it takes me longer
Doc: Is there anything in your life that frustrates you?
You: yes, i always lose my keys
Doc: Lets try to dig deeper into that
Doc: Is there anything in your life that makes you happy?
You: my wife does
Doc: Why is it that you have come to seek help now, what has changed?
You: i have to constantly leave myself reminders or else i forget everything
Doc: Do you ever experience long periods of sadness or loneliness?
You: no
Doc: Hmm that is peculiar
Doc: Between happiness, excitement, sadness and anger, what emotion do you experience most often?
You: from those i would say sadness
Doc: Please elaborate on that for me.
You: im not really sad but one time i got lost on a walk and it just made me realize i may need help
Doc: Hmm that is peculiar
Doc: Thank you for your time, I think that I have learned enough about you for an accurate diagnosis.

I am %56.0 confident that you have alzheimers

Symptoms displayed:

Happines: 12
Excitement: 4
Anger: 0
Agression: 0
Sadness: 10
Fear: 0
Anxiety: 0
Confusion: 10
Memory Loss: 0
Cognitive Loss: 0
Delusion: 0
Hallucination: 0

Calculated possible diagnoses:

Manic Disorder: 480
IE Disorder: 40
Depression: 850
Bipolar Disorder: 0
Anxiety Disorder: 0
Amnesia: 650
Alzheimers: 2100
Schizophrenia: 0

Transcript 8: Schizophrenia test case

The following transcript is produced by a patient exhibiting stereotypical symptoms of Schizophrenia interacting with the agent. The patient has delusions of control (believes an external force controls their thoughts) and grandiose religion (believes they have been chosen to act as a god).

Welcome, you are now speaking with a mental health professional, for best results please participate fully and answer any questions in detail. Feel free to speak openly and discuss any sensitive topics as this conversation is completely confidential.

You: Hey
Doc: Hello, I'm Dr. Feelgood. Why don't you begin by telling me about yourself, what is your name?
You: Norman
Doc: And what do you like to do with your spare time?
You: i dont have spare time, ive been chosen for greater things
Doc: That's quite interesting, do you often have time for fun?
You: no, as i have been chosen by god to fullfill and important duty i do not have time for fun
Doc: Okay, I see
Doc: How many friends can you trust and depend on?
You: i cant trust anyone
Doc: Now that I know a little about you, can you tell me the reason you are here?
You: i hear voices of celestial beings, they control my thoughts and make me terrible things
Doc: Is there anything about your thoughts that concerns you?
You: they arent my own, the gods have chosen me as their vessel
Doc: Is there anything in your life that excites you?
You: i dont feel much
Doc: Is there anything in your life that makes you happy?
You: not really
Doc: Hmm that is peculiar
Doc: Do you ever feel out of touch with reality?
You: yes, i feel as if im watching my body from far away
Doc: Lets try to dig deeper into that
Doc: How often do you go out or have fun?
You: never
Doc: Do you ever see things that no one else does?
You: i had a vision once, in this vision i was shown the truth, that god is actually an alien
Doc: Have you been chosen for any greater purpose?
You: yes, i believe so
Doc: Okay, I see
Doc: Please tell me which, if any, of these words relate to you: visions, whispering, important, aliens, followed, or conspiracy.
You: visions and aliens
Doc: Please elaborate on that for me.
You: well as i said i had a vision that god is an alien
Doc: We are almost done here but before you go, is there anything else you need to tell me?
You: im not crazy, do you think im crazy?
Doc: I'm sorry, I'm not supposed to answer questions, only ask them.
You: of course you are, you better watch yourself i feel like they are transmitting thoughts to me right now
Doc: Thank you for your time, I think that I have learned enough about you for an accurate diagnosis.

I am %72.0 confident that you have schizophrenia

Symptoms displayed:

Happines: 9
Excitement: 16
Anger: 0
Agression: 0
Sadness: 3
Fear: 10
Anxiety: 4
Confusion: 3
Memory Loss: 0
Cognitive Loss: 1
Delusion: 70
Hallucination: 6

Calculated possible diagnoses:

Manic Disorder: 1190
IE Disorder: 160
Depression: 270
Bipolar Disorder: 0
Anxiety Disorder: 489
Amnesia: 49
Alzheimers: 90
Schizophrenia: 5560